

How To Use A Communication Board

When people are hard of hearing, sometimes it's easier to use a Communication Board. An example is shown below & the full size copy is on the next page. Feel free to print & use ours or create your own!

How To Use It:

- Point to the picture or phrase that you want to communicate to the person you are speaking to.
- Give them the Board so they can reply back. Have a pad handy in case they want to write their reply.
- Over time, note the most common words, phrases & topics & add those to your communication board.

Create Your Own Board!

- It doesn't have to be pretty! You can literally cut out a picture of, say, a pizza and tape it on a piece of paper.
- Put down the most common communication points on your board.
- Tape it by the bed and / or where you communicate most often.

Use pictures or icons for clarity

Pictures help in understanding & are easier to use than just words.

Put words under the picture

Having the word under the picture or icon ensures there is no mistaking what the picture means

Not Good	Cold Drink	Up	Med 1:	Wheel-Chair	Visit Friend	Underwear	Pet

It doesn't have to look like this.

If you google, "Communication Boards," you will see many different styles & colours! What ever works for you is fine. You can even use them on a tablet! You will probably have specific terms or topics depending on the situation. Design your board any way you wish. The more visual & simple, the better. Communication is the goal. Feel free to replace any or all of the words we've used.
